

Pearson International Airport voted worst in Canada

Posted by Robyn Urback / NOVEMBER 1, 2010

75 Comments

Despite its belated, belated hop on the WiFi bandwagon, Toronto's Pearson International Airport has been named the worst airport in Canada.

A poll by Flightnetwork.com surveyed 800 Canadian travellers, who were asked to rank their least favourite airports. Pearson came out as the ultimate loser, with Montreal's Trudeau airport and Winnipeg's international airport ranking slightly better.

Respondents were asked to consider factors such as service, slow security checks, food availability and comfort of lounge seats. Airports in Halifax, Vancouver and Victoria were the "least hated" of the bunch.

What do you think of the results? Is Pearson really that bad?

Photo by gorbould in the blogTO Flickr pool.