Earlier today, FlightNetwork.com announced the launch of their free iPhone, and BlackBerry mobile app. Using the FlightNetwork.com mobile app, users have the ability to search and compare the lowest airfares available in the country. Also with ease, book a flight within the native app, without being re-directed to another webpage or having to telephone in payment information. How convenient does that sound? Hit the more button for the entire press release,.

"There has been much excitement and much disappointment over Canadian flight booking mobile applications to date," said Naman Budhdeo, CEO of FlightNetwork.com. "FlightNetwork.com has the first and only Canadian mobile flight booking application that empowers consumers to search flights from multiple airlines and then complete their transaction without the inconvenience of leaving the application or fumbling to call in payment information."
